Cheesecake

[Toga Witnessing Deku making dessert for All Might]

Ah, there he is. His eyes shine as he double checks the ingredients to make the world's sweetest desert. "Eggs, check. Cream cheese, check. Sugar, check. Whipped cream...huh?" In a panic, he runs around in the kitchen, opening every cabinet, nook, and cranny he can find. Little does he know that I have the last ingredient, because I absolutely REFUSE to let him make that delicacy for anyone except me. But I'm not a complete psycho! If he really, really needs some he can always take it from my now "whipped" body. Oh to be anything but a metal can right now. I chuckle silently in the slight cracked pantry closet, enjoying the chaos of my [lover but not yet but someday will be, he just doesn't know it yet] run around the room frantically looking for whipped cream.

Finally, he approaches the pantry closet. His hands slowly grips on the door handle. I start to shake in excitement. He opens the door, and in complete terror he screams: "TOGA???" and here I am, completely soaked in whipped cream, surrounded by cherries that spell I <3 Deku.

Maids and Butlers in Mondstadt

“Why?” Diluc questioned. “Why are you dressed like that?!” Kaeya posed in front of him in a maid outfit. “Don’t I look beautiful? There! Put one one! You-know-who is getting a bit...tense.” Diluc shivered. “You don’t mean Donna, right? I heard a rumor that there was a girl’s corpse found and that she did it.” Kaeya nodded. “Yeah, she takes her obsession with you a bit too seriously. Anyways, put it on! I think the reason she likes you is your dapper outfit!” Diluc relented and put it on.

The entire day, he and Kaeya walked around the city with a hundred eyes staring at them. Donna was standing with another girl. The other girl spoke. “Master Diluc looks just as handsome in a dress!” This was her last statement.

Donna stood above her, covered in blood and giggling.

“You’re Mine!”

Yandere Devil

Today was Kobeni's eleventh day at the maid cafe and there was a new customer. A polite girl who ordered tea and smiled, but who Kobeni felt was fixated on her every move. She thought she might be imagining it, but still felt her nervousness increasing over the two hours the girl remained in the cafe, slowly drinking her singular cup of tea.

Finally, the girl left. But when Kobeni got to her recently repaired car after her shift she froze in terror. There was a short note that read "I am the Yandere Devil and you are mine!"

Orange scampered through the dimly lit halls, his metallicly enhanced steps echoing through the darkness. He turned around, frantically scanning the area through his spacesuit. Orange knew that his destination was located behind him. He knew that the doors were closed. He knew that the one he once loved now desired his physical heart.

O, how his heart ached with the bittersweet, acidic memories of the recent past. Orange felt his heart lurch forth as a shadow approached. Orange saw White's silent mouthing of "I Love You" as White's grenade flew into the air.

Ignis kicks the closet door closed. The bodybag makes a slight squelch against the back wall. He hopes Noctis doesn't notice. Blissfully unaware, Noctis flicks through something on his phone. "Hey, whatever happened to that one Kingsglaive who used to call me names? Haven't seen him today."

Ignis busies himself wiping down the kitchen table in Noctis' apartment. "Haven't a clue," he lies. Noctis shrugs. "Oh well, can you order us a pizza?" A line of red seeps from under the closet door, Ignis jumps to wipe it away. "Of course. Anything for you, Noctis." Noctis never sees the blood.

“The outfit looks nice on you.” Kuroo remarked canines on full display. “Should wear it out.” Bakuto flushed slightly at the compliment. In all honesty the tight fitting suit was only a uniform for his work at the Maid Cafe; but whatever made his customers happy.

“Well it was nice to see you around, see you tomorrow.” Bokuto smiled warmly, shutting the door softly. At the last second Kuroo’s shoe stuck into the gap keeping it open. He pushed it open slightly before speaking and a shudder ran up Bokuto’s spine.

“Yeah. I’ll see you.”

“Who-who is this?” Renge can’t hide the anger in her voice as she speaks. “Renge, please leave us alone.” Kyoya responds. “How many times do I have to tell you! I’m not yours and I never will be!”

“Fine!” Renge thinks.

“If I can’t have you... no one can...”

Through The Window

He stared out the window. In the apartment across the street he could see him; Aizawa Shouta in his kitchen, wearing a maid dress. Hizashi sat in awe, ecstatic that Aizawa would put on the gift Hizashi had left on his doorstep the previous night. With a wide grin, he reached into his pocket and dialed Aizawa's number, Hizashi had to see that dress soaked in the man's blood.

"Hello? Who is this?" Aizawa answered.

"Do you like your present?"

Hizashi saw Aizawa rush to the window, body trembling. For now the fear would suffice, blood could come later.

The room was quiet, peaceful. Such an atmosphere was to be expected from the Host Club despite their current theme. Haruhi tugged at their waistcoat, unaccustomed to the weight of a butler uniform. The Host Club normally full of roses and blue uniforms was now populated by six nested dressed butlers. The door chimed.

“Welcome back Master!” Haruhi bowed and was looking at a blonde patron. He was tall and introduced himself as Tamaki. From across the room Kyoya watched, glaring at the men that were daring to speak to his Haruhi. The interaction may have been harmless but Kyoya wouldn't be.

Playing The Part

Dear Diary,

The gods of love must love irony. Why else would I be given the name that literally means love?

It's something I've never experienced and likely never will.

I've played the part of a maiden in love, but that's all it was. Playing. At least I think it was...

I remember my cheeks burning hot when he told me that I don't need to put on an act. I couldn't believe him. I can't believe him. Because if I do, I might not be able to stop myself...

Plus my dear Kaguya would kill me. Seriously.

“Actual maids that can do their jobs. You aren’t coming. You’re a disgrace to maids everywhere.”

It was clear Tohru was scheming something. Whatever it was she knew it wasn’t anything good.

“Why are you smiling?” “If there’s no maid left there can’t be a convention.” Tohru laughed stroking her tail.

Kobayashi slapped Tohru.

Participating in the Prosecutor's Office's maid and Butler cafe for "promotion" was already a bad idea, but if he knew Wright were to bring his gang of fatherless children to ridicule him specifically, well... he definitely wouldn't have been bullied into signing up.

It was even worse when oldbag showed up. "Edgy" the nickname sent a chill up his spine, and when he turned, he almost fainted. Almost. Her face was bloodied, a crooked grin tearing her wrinkled face. "I Love You."

He ran. He didn't know to where, but he ran...forever!
